Frequently asked questions

Organization : New Brunswick Professional Association of Criminology (NBPAC)
Version : 1.0 Adopted : June 2, 2026 Updated : September 25, 2026

Who can become an NBPAC member?

Anyone holding a degree in criminology or a related field, or enrolled in a recognized program (student member).

Will my services be offered in French and English?

Yes. The Association operates in both official languages and its members provide services in the language chosen by the person, wherever possible.

My degree was earned outside New Brunswick. Am I eligible?

Possibly. You may request recognition of equivalency; the admissions committee assesses your training and experience. Bridging coursework may be required.

How much does membership cost?

Student membership is free. For the other categories: $125 for a regular member and $90 for an associate member, per year. Honorary members also pay no fee. A non-refundable application review fee of $50 applies to the admission of regular and associate members.

How can I confirm someone is really a member?

Use the member directory to confirm membership and “good standing” status.

How do I file a complaint against a member?

The Public-protection page describes the confidential process and provides a form.

What is the mandatory continuing education?

Regular members earn at least 20 continuing-education units per year, including 3 in ethics.

Is the NBPAC a legally recognized professional order?

It is a professional association. Incorporation and formal legal recognition should be validated by New Brunswick legal counsel.
